DETAILED ACTION

Formal drawings are required.

Applicant's election with traverse of group I (apparatus), species II (Fig.2) in the reply filed on 1-08-07 is acknowledged. The traversal is partly found persuasive.

The traversal is on the ground(s) that the restriction requirement is improper because of the following arguments:

(1) MPEP 806.05(e) requires the comparison of "the process as claimed" and "the apparatus as claimed".

(2) "[T]he Examiner has stated that the method can be practiced by two different embodiments of the claimed apparatus, as recited in two apparatus claims. If this were proper, then a restriction requirement between method and apparatus would be proper in any case where two different embodiments of the apparatus are recited in two different claims" (emphasis, original).

(3) The Applicants assume that the second stage of the restriction requirement (i.e., election of species) is operative, regardless of which "invention" is elected in the first stage (restriction requirement of groups I-II) because the Examiner has not made this second stage restriction requirement dependent upon electing either the apparatus "invention" or the method "invention".

(4) Applicants also state that "if any one of claims 1 through 5, 37, or 38 is found allowable, claims to all six Species must be allowed."

As to (1) and (2), Examiner agrees with the Applicants that the "another materially different apparatus" should not be claimed by the Applicants. However, to give an example proving that the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus, the Examiner hereby provides the following "another materially different apparatus": A cylindrical tube large enough for a patient to be horizontally passed through, the tube used for excluding magnetic objects contained on or in the body of the patient near MRI instruments, comprising a tube substrate having an array of sensors arranged thereon, the tube substrate positioned around the body of the patient to scan the whole body of the patient, a processor processing the signals from the sensor array to detect magnetic field of the objects. Another example would be that of Kopp (20030171669). The Kopp's abstract describes that "[a]n MRI protector for protecting personnel and the MRI apparatus from the introduction of ferrous articles into the magnetic field of the MRI has an array of Hall effect sensors oriented to scan the magnetic field of the MRI. The Hall effect sensors are oriented to scan the magnetic field at the access door of the shielded MRI room. The sensors are connected to a central processing unit (CPU) which analyses the output of the sensors and propagates a warning when the presence of ferrous articles affects the magnetic field of the MRI." See also Kopp's Figures and claims. Thus, the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus described by Kopp.

As to (3), the Applicants' assumption contradicts the record. The Applicants' attention is directed to the Examiner's statement in the restriction requirement "[a]fter the restriction requirement being elected, the following election of species applies:..." Thus, the species II of Figure 2 of the apparatus invention group I is elected and examined.

As to (4), Applicants' statement "if any one of claims 1 through 5, 37, or 38 is found allowable, claims to all six Species must be allowed" is improper (emphasis added). Applicants will be only entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Applicants elected claims (species II) 1-6, 8-10, 24-26 and 37-40 to be examined. Because claims 37-40 read on the non-elected group II, they are withdrawn from consideration by the Examiner.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-26 are allowed.

Art Unit: 2862

It should be noted that claims 7, 11-23 have been rejoined, examined and allowed.
